Ten Minutes by Tractor has been one of the Mornington Peninsula's benchmark diners for a few years, but recently it's been displaying even more vim and confidence. The timber-floored dining room has received some care and attention with upgraded glassware and crockery and an artfully arranged central wine table that reflects the commitment this winery restaurant has always shown towards the grape – both its own labels and the impressive collection from further afield. The food seems more honed, too – perhaps quail with buckwheat polenta and roasted grapes cooked just so, a sensuous mushroom panna cotta or parmesan-crusting hapuku teamed with a shining chardonnay and chive sauce. The attention to detail – from excellent house-made bread to the simple but striking plating and jewel-like petits fours – speaks of a restaurant that's really hitting its stride.
